PROFILE

A highly experienced and successful CEO and non-executive Chair, who has held senior roles in a variety of international, charitable, business and sports organisations. Core marketing, commercial and fundraising skills are reinforced by experience of strategy development and operational delivery to provide genuine breadth. A track-record of delivering cultural evolution and organisational growth through complex stakeholder landscapes and building and leading highly effective teams to deliver significant, positive social impact.

CAREER HISTORY

Emmaus Hertfordshire Chief Executive

May 2021 to present

CEO of a £1 million turnover charitable social enterprise which offers a home and meaningful work experience to up to 39 formerly homeless 'companions' while helping them regain their independence. 75% of the community running costs are raised by sales of recycled and upcycled furniture online and through a network of 5 shops and a house clearance business.

- Increased occupancy and grew trading and fundraising income year on year
- Restructured the staff team and created a new strategy to better balance the twin priorities of profits and people
- Developed a plan to tackle a historic building maintenance backlog which was threatening the long-term viability of the community and successfully raised significant sums to enable repair work to start
- Significantly raised the profile of the organisation with key local and national stakeholders, including hosting a royal visit in summer 2022
- Elected to the Emmaus UK Federation Committee and to the boards of Emmaus Europe and Emmaus International which oversee the work of more than 450 Emmaus Communities in more than 40 countries around the world

Libraries for Life Chief Executive

Appointed April 2020

CURRICULUM VITAE

1. Family name: Thompson
2. First name: Nick
3. Nationality: British
4. Civil status: Married, 4 children

5. Summary of professional and personal experience:

I began my professional career focussing on children and young people's services and extended this to the delivery of social welfare services for all services users in various local authorities in the north of England.

Having taken early retirement as Director of Social Services in Sefton, I spent over 15 years working in EEC and CIS countries as an international childcare advisor on the reformation of services for vulnerable children and their families. My particular expertise has been in face-to-face negotiations with politicians and officials in the introduction of community-based services for children and their families, reforming welfare services and the closure of large institutions for children.

For the last few years, primarily in the NW of England, I have been engaged as a volunteer in both in the development of and provision of services for vulnerable and disadvantaged people, and in projects to protect the environment and green spaces, and tackle the climate change crisis.
